Leading Utility Contractor INTREN Announces New CEO, Board Leadership

JPS Executive, Kelly Tomblin, Named CEO

UNION, Ill., May 15 – INTREN announced that Loretta Rosenmayer, founder and CEO, will become Chairwoman of the Board of INTREN and a new CEO will take the reins on daily leadership. Founding the company in 1988, Rosenmayer has continued to lead a steady course to what has become one of the nation's leading utility contractors.

Kelly Tomblin, President and Chief Executive Officer at Jamaica Public Service Company Ltd., will become the new CEO of INTREN effective July 10, 2017.

"This evolution comes at an extraordinary time for INTREN", said Rosenmayer. "Our momentum is strong, and our management team and employees have built an exceptional company that is one of the most trusted and respected in the industry. I'm confident Kelly is ideally positioned for her new role to continue our growth."

Tomblin was chosen in a competitive selection process from a strong field of candidates. She is a highly impressive and respected executive known for her ability to build diverse, meaningful cultures in a collaborative leadership style. As a recipient of the prestigious 2016 Platt's Global Energy CEO of the Year award, Kelly topped an impressive list of finalists leading companies in the United States and around the world.

No stranger to the industry, Tomblin brings more than 25 years in the energy industry with experience in both competitive- and vertically-integrated markets throughout the United States, U.K. and Latin America. At the helm of Jamaica Public Service Company since 2012, Tomblin was responsible for introducing several groundbreaking initiatives and developments to the organization. She successfully guided the energy company through a profound transformation and united her employees on one vision: "to lead an energy revolution for the growth and prosperity of every Jamaican".

"INTREN would not be what it is today without Loretta's vision, leadership and unwavering commitment to high standards and values," said Tomblin. "I am honored to lead the INTREN team and continue the progress evolving before me."
